

Young British Designers at urban living interiors

Mark Riese, creative director, of urban living interiors is passionate about seeking out the work of young, new British Designers. He is currently dedicating the front of the showroom in Great Portland Street to exhibiting and selling the work of a group of talented designers just starting out on their careers.

"Yes, we can all run off to Milan, Paris, New York to see what is happening in all those exciting venues; but when you find home grown talent like this then this is game changing." says Mark, "We are excited to be able to showcase the work of 5 new designers in our studio showroom, to work with them at this early stage in their careers and to be part of what we know will in each case be an exceptional design path."

Adam Collins - since graduating, Adam has developed his own strong, bold, functional furniture designs combining stunningly coloured fabricated steel with polished woods and glass to create tables, desks, chairs, benches and bar stools – all with intricate design details.

Anna Gravelle – a newly graduated textile designer is showcasing her innovative and unique textiles using tufting, textures and colours in radically different ways on stunning cushions, throws and pouffes.

Kit Miles - graduated 5 years ago and has quickly established himself as a rising talent, creating stunning wallpapers and exquisite luxury fabrics. urban living interiors has showcased his fabrics on a new range of exclusive luxury British hand crafted furniture and his beautiful 'Birds in Chains' fabrics on ready to go cushions along with bespoke versions of his stunning new wallpaper.

Charlotte Wilkinson - another graduate with an inspirational talent working in molten glass to develop her own style of very beautiful and extraordinary sculptures. MRI scans of her father's brain provide inspiration and insights into the human body - balls within balls, cells within cells, laser cut to show the stunning colours of her creativity.

Thomas Jarrold – this brilliant young furniture maker has only just graduated and has created exceptionally crafted unique items of furniture mixing the traditional with the modern; urban living interiors is showcasing a stunning, delicate sculptured cabinet of extraordinary quality and a beautifully structured 'demi lune' console with a quirky twist of red lacquer.

All of the young designers' pieces are available to borrow for photo shoots, in addition to high res images.
